DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The phrase "said plane" lacks proper antecedent basis. The phrases "said foot support position", and "said leg portions", lack proper antecedent basis in claims 5-6.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Jonasson. Jonasson shows the use of a child's restraining seat (20) which is adapted to be affixed in position on a vehicle seat (23) having a seat section lying in a generally horizontal plane, and a back rest section, the restraining seat comprising base means for supporting the restraining seat on the vehicle seat and having a forward portion adapted to lie adjacent the front of the seat section (see Fig., 5). A platform means (10) on the forward portion and having a foot support portion (13) and a foot support positioning leg portion (7,9), whereby the foot support portion being adapted to lie at a generally right angle to the leg portion and when the leg portion is extended generally downwardly from the plane the foot support portion is in a position to comfortably support a child's feet.

5. Claims 1-4 as best understood are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Marshall. Marshall shows the use of a child's restraining seat (332) which is adapted to be affixed in position on a vehicle seat having a seat section lying in a generally horizontal plane, and a back rest section, the restraining seat comprising base means for supporting the restraining seat on the vehicle seat and having a forward portion adapted to lie adjacent the front of the seat section (see Figs. 16-18). A platform means (1,100) on the forward portion and having a foot support portion (103) and a flexible foot support positioning leg portion (Fig. 16), whereby the foot support portion being adapted to lie at a generally right angle to the leg portion and when the leg portion is extended generally downwardly from the plane the foot support portion is in a position to comfortably support a child's feet. Furthermore, Marshall shows the front portion and base means adapted to fold backwards on top of the base means when not in use (see Figs. 16-19) or fold up on the back section when not in use.

6. Claims 1-4 as best understood are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Brady. Brady shows the use of a child's restraining seat (32) which is adapted to be affixed in position on a vehicle seat having a seat section lying in a generally horizontal plane, and a back rest section, the restraining seat comprising base means for supporting the restraining seat on the vehicle seat and having a forward portion adapted to lie adjacent the front of the seat section (see Fig.2). A platform means (10) on the forward portion and having a foot support portion (20) and a flexible foot support positioning leg portion (18), whereby the foot support portion being adapted to lie at a generally right angle to the leg portion and when the leg portion is extended generally downwardly from the plane the foot support portion is in a position to comfortably support a child's feet. Furthermore, the cover of Brady would inherently allow the front portion and base means to fold backwards on top of the base means when not in use or fold up on the back section when not in use.

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claims 5-7 would be allowable over the prior art made of record if rewritten or amended to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action.

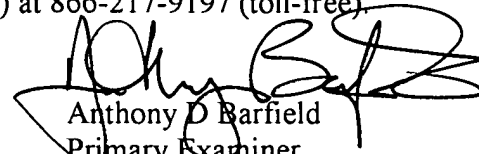

Conclusion

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Reference No. 5,560,679 and 6,237,996 show features of the claimed invention.
